

June 14, 2006

Federal Trade Commission/office of the Secretary,
Room H-135 (Annex W)
Re: Business Opportunity Rule, R511993
600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20580

RE: Business Opportunity Rule, R511993

522418-70230

Dear Sir or Madam,

A am writing this letter because I am concerned about the proposed Business Opportunity Rule, R511993. It seems that it will restrain and hinder honest individuals trying to start up a small business, part of the American dream.

I am against business start-up costs with a seven day waiting period. That does not help people out of work and /or people who want more than one stream of income. It seems to me it will hinder the economy as well. Sunrider refunds the products and startup costs which are not mandatory within a 60 day period if one changes their mind already. This rule will give people a wrong impression making them think there are wrong or illegal practices involved. It will hinder sharing my Sunrider business with others interested in good health and increasing their savings account.

I have been an independent distributor in Sunrider for 19 years. I make about $850 to $1000 per month which is enough to purchase my families Sunrider foods which we use as our core nutrition daily.

People are reluctant to share their personal information with anyone. I am against requiring a person to disclose this information because of privacy and identity theft issues.

I appreciate your efforts to protect consumers, however, please reconsider inacting this Rule as it hinders the American entrepreneur dream and the way we share this amazing Sunrider opportunity, Sunrider has helped myself and my friends and family members have better health which is why I began trying the products at the beginning. Then it became extra income stream.

6/15/2006

Thank you for listening to my concerns.

God Bless You,

Penni Ewing